The site's temporary works involved the highest levels of HSE Requirements. Innovative solutions were developed in working with the client's short timeframes. It saw several teams working in parallel, each requiring advice and support from the ADG Team.

ADG is provided civil and structural temporary works design, verification and site support for this $20 billion project.

The biggest challenge of this development is that there are several teams working in parallel, each requiring advice and support from the ADG team. This means that innovative solutions are required in very short timeframes.
